HARRY GLICKMAN

Harry Glickman, executive vice president of the Portland Trail Blazers, is a perfectionist.

His responsibility is to put a winning basketball team on the court while running a solvent business off the court.

Perhaps more successful than most other sports executives at achieving both, Glickman has taken the Trail Blazers to the top as one of the most respected franchises in the National Basketball Association.

In fact, this is true in all professional sports, not just in basketball.

It wasn't an easy road, but some good luck and persistence always have had a way of putting Glickman ahead.

In the 1950s and the 1960s, he was the president of Oregon Sports Attractions.

Under Glickman's leadership, this group brought to Portland highly successful National Football League exhibition games, ice shows, boxing matches and various other events.

He even promoted Northwest tours of Judy Garland and Liberace.

Also in the '50s, Glickman managed Multnomah Stadium.

A graduate of the University of Oregon School of Journalism, Glickman served at Oregon as the school's director of sports publicity. He looked forward to a career in journalism.

But when he returned from Germany during World War II, he met people who convinced him to promote sports rather than write about them.

In 1960, Glickman brought minor league hockey, missing for 10 years, back to Portland. The Buckaroos played minor league hockey in the old Western Hockey League.

But with only six teams in the National Hockey League at the time, the Western League was far from "minor."

The Buckaroos finished in first place in seven of their first nine seasons.

And they outdrew every team in America except those of the then six-team NHL.

Then the Trail Blazers arrived in the City of Roses.

And what a success story. The Blazers finished the 1983-84 season looking back on 312 consecutive sellouts.

This is an all-time NBA record.

Glickman provided the leadership that brought a world's championship in basketball to Portland and he won't rest until the city is thrilled by another one.

Glickman and his wife, Joanne, have two daughters, Lynn and Jennifer, and a son, Marshall. In his off hours, Glickman enjoys golf, tennis and fishing. He also is active in a number of civic causes throughout Oregon.

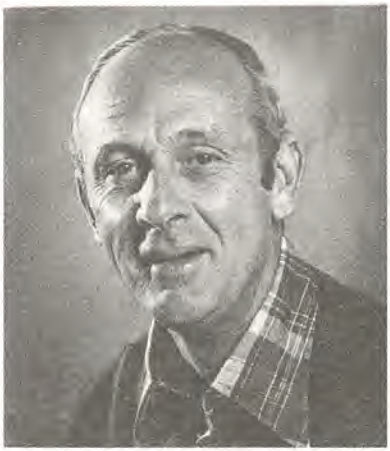
STU INMAN



Stu Inman is the general manager of the Portland Trail Blazers, and he is the chief architect of the club for the annual college draft.

Now Inman can be a very funny guy.

He can sing virtually every song written since 1772. And he needs no encouragement at all to warble them at any gathering.

If you ever heard him, you would know how he can be a very funny guy.

But when it comes to the college draft, Inman is deadly serious.

And over the years, Inman has made some incredible drafts.

The Trail Blazers picked up Larry Steele in the third round, Lloyd Neal in the third round and T.R. Dunn in the third round.

And that's just scratching the surface.

The 1972 draft was not the best in history for quality. But it was astounding in one aspect.

The first five players selected all played in the NBA – Larue Martin, Bob Davis, Dave Twardzik, Ollie Johnson and Lloyd Neal.

It is typical, perhaps that the Portland NBA champions of 1977 had eight draft choices, two free agents, one player acquired in a trade and only one outright purchase.

And Inman certainly got off on the right foot in drafting.

His first choice for Portland in 1970 was Geoff Petrie of Princeton. And Petrie wound up sharing Rookie of the Year honors in the NBA with Dave Cowens of Boston.

Inman's first pick in 1971 was Sidney Wicks – who won Rookie of the Year honors.

Inman, who grew up in the Bay Area, is a Trail Blazer original.

And almost by accident.

When an NBA franchise was granted to Portland in February of 1970, there were only a couple of months to put together Portland's first draft and the college season was almost over.

Inman came highly recommended and signed on, really as a temporary scout.

Four of Inman's first draft choices made the club. Two years later Inman was named a Portland vice president. And he's still around.

Inman is a 1950 graduate of San Jose State, where he played basketball as a 6-5 center.

In fact, he's still the school's all-time scoring champion – a remarkable accomplishment considering that scores were much lower in that era.

(Yes, he also holds the San Jose State all-time record for personal fouls.)

The Spartans were tough, too, in Inman's undergraduate days, posting records of 19-9, 23-9, 22-12 and 21-7 for an overall record of 85-37.

Later Inman was to coach San Jose State from 1957 through 1966.

Inman is a member of the school's Sports Hall of Fame and recently was elected to the Fresno County Hall of Fame, too.

It was in Fresno where Inman started his coaching career in high school.

Inman also is an old hand at international basketball clinics, is well known in Europe, the Orient and Australia.

Inman and his wife, Elinor, have four daughters – Nancy, Sandy, Janice and Carol – and a son, David.

JON SPOELSTRA

His name appears on the credits on the televised games as Executive Producer, but that's really a small portion of his job. Spoelstra is entering his sixth season as Vice President of Marketing, a job that encompasses all aspects of television, radio, cable and advertising. He is also involved in the sales of Coliseum tickets, the Blazer Newspaper Feature Service and in developing community service projects.

The 15-person marketing department that Spoelstra heads has become a vital department for the Blazers, providing important operating income to help cover player salaries and expenses.

Spoelstra is a graduate of the University of Notre Dame. He and his wife, Lisa, have a daughter, Monica, a freshman at the ND. Their son, Erik, is a freshman at Jesuit High School.

GEORGE RICKLES

Rickles is a Blazer original. This is his 15th season with the Blazers, now serving as Vice President of Administration. Administration in this case means far more than office operations – Rickles is in charge of the lifeblood of the Blazer business operation, ticket sales.

Previous to his Blazer career, Rickles handled for 13 years the ticket operations for the Portland Buckaroos. He helped set the attendance records for the Western Hockey League club.

Perhaps from being around arenas most of his life, the noted amateur chef has developed a special gourmet popcorn. Unfortunately for Blazer fans, the hybred kernel is too limited for mass consumption. Rickles has three sons, Norman and steve, both Portland attorneys, and Jerry, with a local record store. His wife, Sharla, is a registered nurse.

KEN BARTELL

This is Bartell's first season on the Blazer staff. As Vice President of Finance, Bartell supervises all financial business. Additionally, Bartell was the key person in installing the most sophisticated computer operations in the NBA. The computer applications range from accounting to tickets to marketing and even scouting.

Bartell was previously General Manager of the Blazer flagship radio station, KEX. He formerly had served as the station's business manager for five years.

He started his business career with Sheraton Hotels, serving as controller. With Sheraton, he traveled worldwide, spending extended periods in various cities in the United States and Puerto Rico.

His wife, Kathleen, is Media Manager of the Blazers.

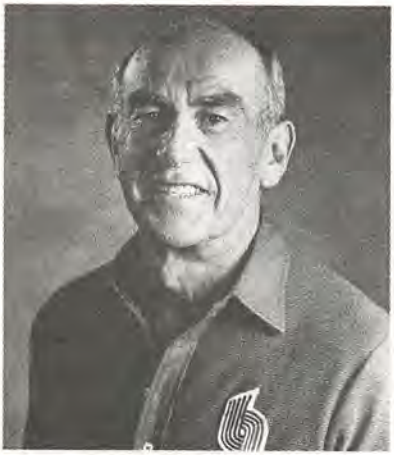
JACK RAMSAY



Jack Ramsay enjoyed two major milestones in 1983-84, his eighth season of coaching the Portland Trail Blazers.

On March 23, 1984, in Memorial Coliseum he directed Portland to a 124-98 victory over the Phoenix Suns.

The victory was Ramsay's 697th of his NBA career, and he passed retired Red Holzman as the second-winningest coach in National Basketball Association history.

Then on March 29 of the same year against Kansas City in Memorial Coliseum Ramsay coached Portland to a 120-113 win for his 700th NBA victory.

Only retired Red Auerbach has more with 938. And you can be certain Ramsay won't rest until he passes him.

Ramsay continues to rank No. 1 among active NBA coaches with 703 victories.

His closest competitors are Gene Shue of Washington with 685 and Dick Motta of Dallas with 665.

The Portland Trail Blazers made the playoffs in 1984 for the seventh time in eight seasons with Ramsay as coach.

Only Los Angeles and Philadelphia have made more playoff appearances than the Blazers in those eight seasons.

Going back to his coaching days in Buffalo, Ramsay now has guided teams to the playoffs in 10 of the last 11 campaigns.

No other coach in the National Basketball Association can make that statement.

Portland last season won 48 and lost 34 for the sixth-best record in the league.

In eight seasons with the Blazers, Ramsay has directed Portland to 371 victories and 283 defeats for a winning percentage of .567.

In 16 NBA seasons, his teams have won 703 and lost 609 for a winning percentage of .536. Ramsay coached Portland to the world's championship in 1977 and to the best regular-season in the league in 1978.

Before joining the professional ranks, Ramsay coached for 11 seasons at St. Joseph's in Philadelphia.

His teams won 234 and lost 72 for a winning percentage of .765. He never had a losing season and coached his clubs to 10 major post-season tournaments.

A 1949 graduate of St. Joseph's, where he was team captain as a senior, Ramsay coached his alma mater from 1955-56 through 1965-66.

Ramsay is married and he and his wife, Jean, have three daughters and two sons.

Ramsay is a strong advocate, to put it mildly, of physical fitness. And he is a leader by example.

Every day of his life Ramsay rides a bicycle or swims or runs or lifts weights. Often he does a combination of two or more.

Ramsay calls physical fitness "absolutely critical for an athlete."

"An athlete can't possibly be satisfied with his performance if he's not physicaly fit," he says.

But Ramsay says everyone, athlete or not, should be fit.

"If the average person is physically fit," says Ramsay, "he is going to feel better, do his job better, communicate with people better. It's going to help in all ways. It's important that the average person eats right, exercises right and get enough rest."

MORRIS (BUCKY) BUCKWALTER

A hero returned to the city of La Grande in eastern Oregon during the past summer.

Morris (Bucky) Buckwalter, assistant coach and top scout of the Portland Trail Blazers, was in town to give the commencement to the La Grande High School graduating class of 1984.

Buckwalter still is a legend for his basketball feats during a Blue Mountain Conference career that wound up in 1952.

At the commencement, Buckwalter said all the right things.

Example: "This is where I grew up. This is where my values were shaped."

Buckwalter had a ball except for one thing.

A local writer printed that in high school "Buckwalter's main weapon was an old-styled set shot."

"Set shot, indeed," snarled Buckwalter later when reading the article. "This wasn't the 1920s or the 1930s or the 1940s. This was the 1950s. Set shot, indeed."

But Buckwalter forgives and still has fond memories of when he was a 6-2 forward and led his club to the Oregon state tournament.

Since leaving La Grande, Buckwalter has been around the basketball block.

He was a varsity regular for three seasons at University of Utah where he led his team in scoring as a sophomore. Buckwalter was all-conference in his final two seasons when Utah twice was eliminated in the NCAA playoffs by eventual national champion San Francisco in the days of Bill Russell.

After serving as an assistant for eight seasons at Utah, Buckwalter took over as head coach at Seattle University in 1967-68 and in five seasons posted a sparkling record of 79 victories and 49 defeats for a winning percentage of .617.

In the professional ranks, Buckwalter joined the Seattle SuperSonics as an assistant coach in 1972-73. When Tom Nissalke was fired in January of 1973, Buckwalter took over as head coach for the rest of the season.

In 1973-74 he was assistant general manager to Bill Russell with the SuperSonics.

And in 1974-75 he coached the Utah Stars in the American Basketball Association. That was the season when a youngster named Moses Malone turned professional with Utah.

Buckwalter also coached the Fresno Stars of the Western Basketball Association for a year before joining Portland as an assistant.

Yes, Buckwalter has been around the basketball block.

Buckwalter and his wife, Paula, live in east Multnomah county and a basketball-playing son, 6-6 Bryan, is expected to play junior college ball in 1984-85.

Buckwalter serves pretty much as a bench coach until the college basketball season begins. Then his top priority is scouting for the next draft.

"I think the combination has worked well," he said, "because I am able to maintain continuity with the team and that is important."

Buckwalter sees vast changes in NBA scouting since he started.

"It is very rare to scout a college game alone anymore," he says. "And there are some games where maybe half the NBA is represented."

And the days are gone when scouts looked at a player only once and then asked the coach if the youngster was a good person before drafting him.

"Anyone you are looking to draft in the early rounds, you have to look at four or five times to make sure what kind of player you are getting. Off the basis of one or two games, you could be fooled pretty easily."

"And we do an awful lot of background investigation on the kid," Buckwalter adds. "We'll check all the way back into high school. What kind of student has he been? What about his family background? So many things."

Buckwalter does not admit to checking on whether the youngster favors "an old-style set shot."

What a Team!

RICK ADELMAN

RINGTHEBELL on Archive.org

When Rick Adelman was named as a new Portland assistant coach for the 1983-84 season, he certainly needed no introduction to the Trail Blazers.

Adelman, a 6-1 guard in his playing days, was selected by Portland in the expansion draft of 1970 and was an original Trail Blazer.

In 1971-72 he was named Portland's first team captain - there was no captain in the first season of 1970-71 - and he was the cover subject on Portland's first press guide.

Overall, Adelman played seven National Basketball Association seasons, three with the Trail Blazers.

Adelman was delighted with his first NBA season as an assistant coach.

"I enjoyed it," he says. "It was a real learning year for me in discovering what Jack Ramsay (head coach) wanted."

Adelman was perhaps a bit surprised by one aspect of his new job.

"It was very much more time consuming than during my playing days," he said.

Does the future hold a head coaching job in the NBA for Adelman?

"I think anyone who is coaching wants to be a head coach," he said, "and to have the right team."

"If a position came up," he said, "I would have to look at it."

"But I am very happy with what I am doing now," he added. "I think that what I am doing is better than many head coaching jobs in the league."

Adelman actually is unbeaten as a coach in the NBA. During Adelman's playing days, Coach Rolland Todd was ejected from a game in Portland's first season.

Adelman took over, and the Blazers won.

In three seasons with Portland, 1970-71 through 1972-73, Adelman played in 237 games, averaged 9.8 points and 4.6 assists a contest.

He shot .412 from the floor and .731 at the foul line.

Adelman set what then was a Portland record for assists in leading the club with 413 and a 5.2 average in 1971-72.

As of the start of the 1984-85 season, he held Portland's all-time record for assists in a single game. On Nov. 19, 1971, he collected 17 against the Cleveland Cavaliers.

In seven NBA seasons with San Diego (he was drafted by the old Rockets in the seventh round), Portland, Chicago, New Orleans and Kansas City, Adelman played in 462 regular-season games.

He scored 3,579 points for a 7.7 average and earned 1,606 assists for a 3.5 average.

He shot .415 from the floor and .713 at the foul line.

Adelman is a product of southern California. He was born in Lynwood, attended St. Pius X high schol in Downey and then went on to Loyola.

At Loyola, Adelman scored 1,415 points - an 18.6 average - for an all-time school record.

After retiring from the NBA, Adelman returned to Loyola to earn a master's degree in history.

He then worked for a year with Converse in southern California before accepting a head coaching job at Chemeketa in Oregon's Salem in 1977.

In six seasons at Chemeketa, Adelman's teams won 141 and lost 39.

Adelman and his wife, Mary Kay, have two daughters, Kathryn Mary, 13, and Laura, 8. And they have two sons, R.J. (for Richard Jared), 11, and David Leonard, 3.

Pay Less Drug Store

the store shoppers have trusted for 42 years.

Since 1942 the policy at Pay Less has been to "give the customers quality merchandise at the lowest possible prices". Forty-two years later we still operate on that same principle. Although much has changed and we have grown and modernized, our customers continue to trust Pay Less.

It's taken time to build that trust. Take a brief walk through any Pay Less store and you'll find the variety, convenience, low prices and friendly shopping environment that illustrates our policy. In the future, as it has been in the past, make Pay Less the store to trust for your shopping needs.

RON CULP

During the 1983-84 National Basketball Association season, only 28 games were missed by the entire Portland Trail Blazers' team because of injuries or illness.

Darnell Valentine missed 14, Peter Verhoeven 5, Calvin Natt and Mychal Thompson 3 each, Audie Norris 2 and Wayne Cooper and Jeff Lamp one each.

Although he tends to shrug off praise, a great deal of the credit for this record belongs to Ron Culp, now in his 15th season as an NBA trainer and his 11th with the Trail Blazers.

"Last year was exceptional," says Culp. "Almost half the games were lost because of Valentine's hand fracture, and we can't do much to speed bone healing."

"Besides," says Culp, with an impish grin, "trainers rarely are directly responsible for anything that happens that is considered good during an NBA season. Usually, we are responsible only when things go wrong."

Culp emphasizes one point about injuries.

"They are a part of sports," he says. "If you are going to participate in sports then you are going to get hurt."

"Operating with this in mind," he says of trainers, "we are dedicated to preventing as many injuries as possible. We condition, exercise, tape, protect, categorize, organize and sympathize."

"It is my belief that today's athletes are better conditioned, better fed and better educated to respond to the pressures of the game than at any previous time in history," says Culp.

"As modern sports medicine improves and grows and becomes more scientific, our athletes have grown to know themselves better," he says. "They are well informed on the latest techniques of treatment, as well as prevention."

"They are acutely aware," says Culp, "that their physical well being is their safeguard for a long and successful career."

"All of these aspects contributed to our excellent season last year," he says, "and hopefully a better one this year."

Then he laughs and adds, "Oh, yes, there is one other major contributor to prevention of injuries. A lot of luck."

Only four other trainers have been in the NBA since the fall of 1970 when Culp started with the Cleveland Cavaliers.

Joe O'Toole still is with Atlanta, Dick D'Olivia with Golden State, Al Domenico with Philadelphia and Joe Proski with Phoenix.

Culp is a 1968 graduate of Bowling Green State University. He earned a master's degree at the same school and has done graduate work in physical therapy at Case Western Reserve University.

Before joining the Calvaliers, where he was trainer for four seasons, Culp was head trainer at Baldwin-Wallace College in Ohio. And while in Cleveland, he also was trainer for the World Tennis team, the Cleveland Nets.

In the off-season in Portland, Culp was trainer for four and one-half seasons for the Portland Timbers of the North American Soccer League.

Culp's wife, Marilyn, works for the district attorney's office in Portland and the couple has a daughter, Amanda.

In the rarefied atmosphere of high technology, a familiar landmark can help you breathe easier.

In recent years, business phone systems have grown in sophistication.

And that's good.

But the suppliers of these business phone systems have grown in numbers.

And that's confusing.

Especially if you wonder whether the high tech system you're looking at is backed up by a correspondingly high level of service.

To resolve this dilemma, why not do what you've always done before?

Put your confidence in the famous Bell trademark, which FirsTel is proud to display as a trusted symbol for reliable service and technical innovation.

Many of our key people gained invaluable experience working within the Bell system.

Now they're flourishing in a similar corporate culture at FirsTel—one that not only encourages excellence but demands it.

It's the kind of atmosphere that's all too rare today. But one that could be healthy for your business communications. For more details, call Cliff Thompson, in our Portland office: (503) 626-4778.

SAM BOWIE

College: Kentucky '84 - Height: 7-1 - Weight: 240 - Position: Center - Birthdate: March 17, 1961 - Birthplace: Lebanon, PA - High School: Lebanon - Residence: Lexington, KY - How Acquired: Drafted in 1984, first round, second selection

COLLEGE CAREER – Bowie led Kentucky in rebounding as a senior with 9.2 average and was third on the Wildcats in scoring with 10.5 points a game ...

In three seasons with Kentucky, Bowie played in 96 of a possible 97 games ... he averaged 13.4 points a game and led the Wildcats in rebounds with an 8.8 average ... he shot .523 from the floor and .735 at the line ...

Bowie missed the 1981-82 and 1982-83 seasons while recovering from a stress fracture of his left shin bone but the medical staff of the Trail Blazers, after extensive examinations, cleared him for action ...

Of Bowie, Portland Coach Jack Ramsay said, "The addition of Sam Bowie will make us a stronger defensive team. Bowie's rebounding, shot blocking and defense against his man and other cutters to the basket should increase our overall defensive strength considerably. Sam also has shown to be a good the nucleus of a very strong and flexible front line" ...

In his final Kentucky season, Bowie was his team's leading rebounder 21 times ... he started all 34 games ... in four NCAA tournament games, Bowie led Kentucky with 10.8 rebounds a contest and was the team's second-highest scorer with 11 against Georgetown, 12 against Louisville and 14 against Illinois ...

In Kentucky's 74-67 victory over University of Houston, Bowie scored 8 points to 14 for Akeem Olajuwan but had 18 rebounds to 12 for the Cougars' star ...

Bowie was a member of the 1980 Olympic team that did not play in Moscow ... he led the team to five victories in six Gold Medal games ... he was the National High School Coaches Association Player of the Year the same season Ralph Sampson was a prep senior ...

PERSONAL – Bowie, who majored in communications at Kentucky, hopes for a career in broadcasting after retirement from basketball ... or he would like to become involved in the horse industry ... he has 9 hours of study left for graduation ... in college he most liked "the people and the relationships ... I didn't like being away from my family and adjusting to the new environment" ...

Bowie's favorite musician is Michael Jackson and his favorite song is We Are Family ... his favorite food is shrimp and he most enjoys winter as a season ... his favorite television show is the Jeffersons and his favorite movie is One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest ... his favorite actress is Jayne Kennedy and his favorite comedian is Eddie Murphy ... his favorite color is blue ...

Bowie's most memorable moment was "the first time I played in Rupp Arena in front of 23,000 people" ... his favorite sports, besides basketball, are football and boxing ... but in his spare time he says, "I try to get away from basketball. I shoot a lot of pool and am just starting to play tennis" ...

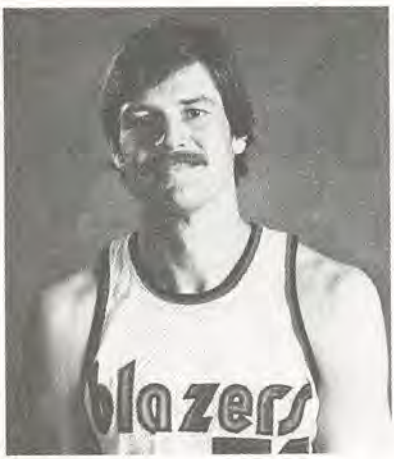
TOM SCHEFFLER



College: Purdue '77 - Height: 6-11 - Weight: 240 - Position: Center - Birthdate: Oct. 27, 1954 - Birthplace: Benton Harbor, MI - How Acquired: Signed as a free agent July 30, 1984

EUROPEAN CAREER – Scheffler was drafted by the Indiana Pacers in the sixth round in 1977 but already had arranged to play in Europe ... he has played the last seven years in Italy, Switzerland and France where he was voted best all-around player in the country...

"He has been one of the best American centers in Europe the last several years," says Portland General Manager Stu Inman. "We see him as a third center or extra big forward type of player, and backup centers and power forwards are difficult to find"...

"Tom Scheffler is a grown-up kid," says Inman. "He plays with the enthusiasm of a young player and the intelligence of an older one" ...

"The worst thing about pro basketball," says Scheffler, "is that they have no real farm system. There are a lot of players like me who just aren't mature, aren't ready, when they come out of college ... I didn't stop growing until I was 25 years old," he says. "I just wasn't ready when I got out of college" ...

"I've been lucky to play in Europe and if things don't work out here I can go back," says Scheffler. "But I still have that dream of playing in the NBA that I had when I was a little kid," he says. "For me, to make it would really be a Cinderella story. I'd have to wake up each day and pinch myself" ...

COLLEGE CAREER – During his senior season at Purdue, Scheffler averaged 8 points and 4.8 rebounds a game ... he shot a solid .532 from the floor and a steady .760 at the foul line ...

PERSONAL – Scheffler is pleased with his European experience ... "I learned French and Italian," he says. "I also got to see the world, including the Orient and Western Europe. I learned more about America by being outside of America. I learned to share more viewpoints with people of other countries and become more knowledgeable of the world" ...

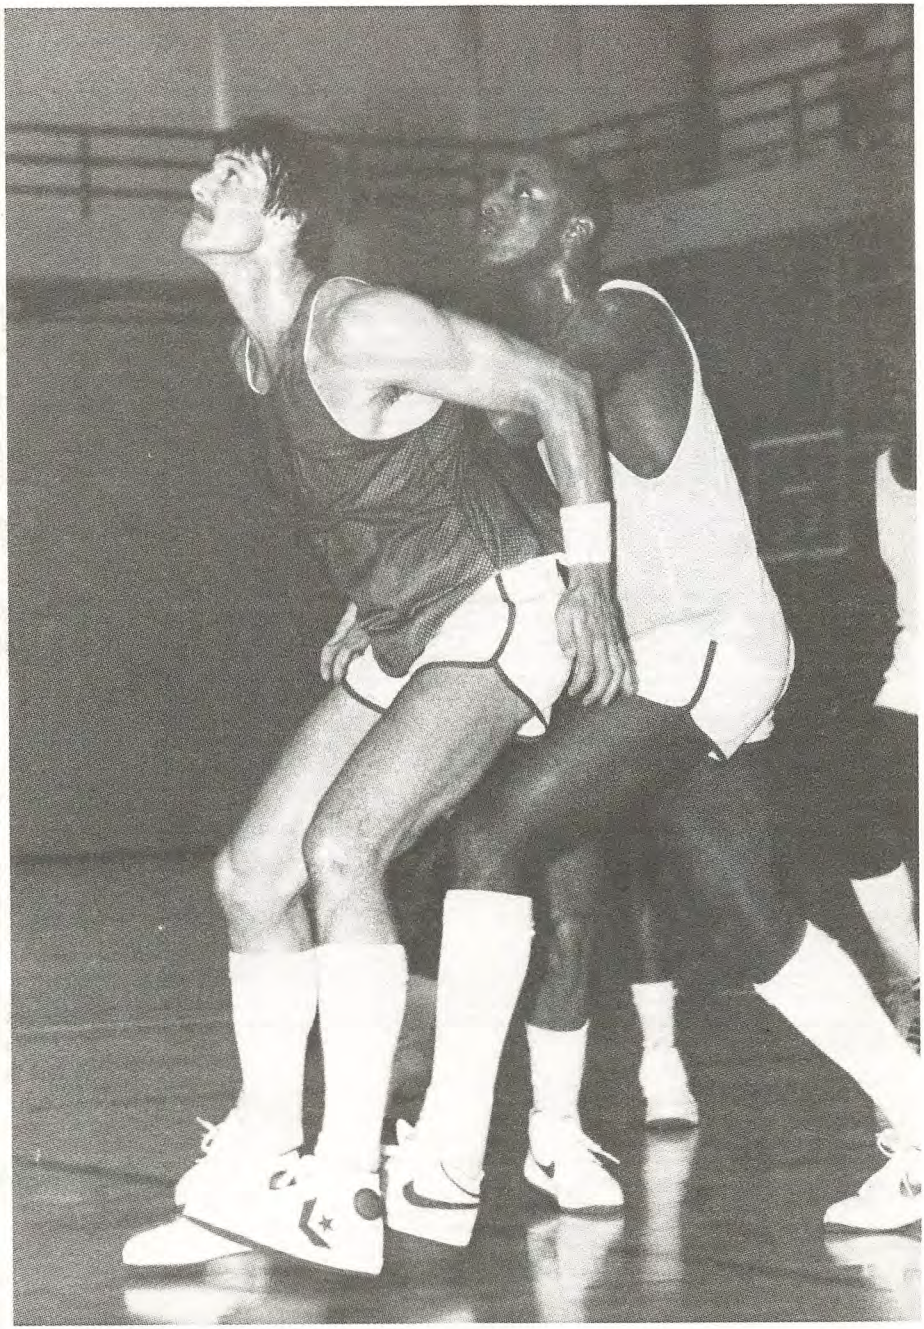
Asked where he would travel if he could go anywhere in the world, Scheffler said, "The Soviet Union. We hear so much about it. I would like to see more of the people and see what life is like for them" ...

Scheffler says his most memorable moment in basketball was "the day I signed the contract with the Portland Trail Blazers" ... comparing his home town to Portland, he says, "Portland's about four times bigger but other than that they are copies of each other" ...

Scheffler hopes to pursue a career in business when he retires from basketball ... in college he majored in commercial art and graphic design ... in the off-season he lifts weights and runs a lot ... he most admires his father ... his favorite sport, besides basketball, is football ... in his spare time he enjoys painting and reading ...

Scheffler's favorite food is Italian ... he most enjoys the spring of the year ... his favorite movie is Caddyshack and his favorite comedian is Rodney Dangerfield ...

Asked his most embarrassing moment is basketball, Scheffler said, "During my freshman year at Purdue, in a game on national television, I was the first one to go out for the line-up and I slipped and fell down" ...



BERNARD THOMPSON

College: Fresno State '84 - Height: 6-6 - Weight: 211 - Position: Guard-Forward - Birthdate: 8-30-62 - Birthplace: Phoenix, AZ - High School: South Mountain - Residence: Phoenix - How Acquired: Drafted in 1984, first-round, 19th selection.

COLLEGE CAREER – Thompson, along with Ron Anderson, was the left-handed side of Fresno State's Bookend Forwards ... as a senior he was a first team All-Pacific Coast Athletic Association selection and won honorable mention All Coast and All America honors from Associated Press and United Press International ...

Thompson saw little playing time as a freshman when he averaged 3.9 points a game ... this average increased to 9.2 in his sophomore season ...

As a junior, Thompson averaged 16.2 points a game during the regular season and with Anderson led Fresno State to the NIT Championship ... in the NIT tournament Thompson averaged 20.2 points a game and was named to the All Star team ...

As a senior, Thompson averaged 15.7 points a game and shot .568 ...

Thompson finished with a college career shooting mark of .577 to set an all-time Fresno State record ... he goes by the motto, "If you take good shots, you're going to make them" ...

Thompson finished as the third-highest scorer in Fresno State history with 1,452 points and set a school record for steals with 151 ... Fresno State won 102 and lost 25 during Thompson's four seasons.

Thompson played in the 1984 Aloha Classic in Hawaii and impressed scouts with his defensive ability while averaging 12.7 points a game on offense ...

PERSONAL – Thompson hopes to become a probation officer when he finishes his basketball career ... he majored in this field at Fresno State where he has just 13 hours to graduate ... his most memorable moment was winning the NIT Championship ... Thompson started as a football player but switched ... "While others were becoming fat and wide," he says, "I was becoming tall and skinny, so I started playing basketball."...

If Thompson could travel anywhere in the world, he would visit Paris ... comparing Portland with his home city, Thompson says, "Portland is a lot greener and Phoenix is a lot drier ... Obviously, it doesn't rain as much in Phoenix as in Portland" ...

Thompson most enjoys Mexican food ... spring is his favorite time of year ... All My Children is his favorite television show and his favorite movie is ET ... Richard Pryor is his favorite comedian and gray is his favorite color ...

Thompson says, "I'm the type of player where if I'm not having a good game offensively, I can help on the defensive end ... I think in the defensive aspect is where I'll be the most help to Portland" ... "We see him mostly as a No. 2 guard," says Blazer Coach Jack Ramsay. "We wanted a big player at 2 guard who can defense the high scorers and still be an offensive contributor, someone to take on the George Gervins" ...

HENRY WEINHARD

Henry Weinhard
Brewmaster, No. 1, 5'10½", 171 lbs.
Born: 1830, Wurtemburg, Germany
High School: Wurtemburg Area
College: Brewers apprentice

At the age of 22, and after years of apprenticeship, a talented Henry Weinhard decided he was ready for the major leagues. Upon surveying his options, Henry determined the best opportunity for a rookie such as him was in America.

In 1852 he came to the United States and immediately found a berth with the brewers in Cincinati, Ohio. He spent four years with this team polishing his skills.

As a free agent, he was intrigued by reports concerning bright openings on the Pacific coast. So early in 1856 he made the long voyage, via the isthmus, to the far west and hooked up with a Vancouver, Washington organization where he plied his trade for six months.

He then felt the time was right to make his move, so, in 1856, he established his own brewery near Fort Vancouver. It wasn't long before soldiers, loggers and trappers of the area became very big Henry Weinhard fans.

In 1860 he moved his operations to its present location on Burnside in Portland. From then on, Henry chalked up an enviable record of victories. He kept acquiring more equipment and adding more facilities to constantly increase his output while stubbornly maintaining the high level of excellence he had become known for. Everywhere along the coast Weinhard's beer was recognized as unsurpassed by any other native product.

Henry's experience and foresight prompted him to locate in Portland because he realized this area would eventually become the primary source of premium brewing ingredients in the United States. Time has proven him right.

Rare, two-row malting barley, for example, is grown in very few areas of the country, but Oregon's Klamath Basin is the most prominent. And the unique Cascade hops — which Henry recognized as being equal if not superior to the exalted Hallertau hop of Bavaria are raised here in Oregon.

Today, two labels continue in the proud, teutonic tradition set forth by Henry Weinhard 124 years ago. The perennial hometown favorite, Blitz-Weinhard, and the handmade, ultra-premium that is his namesake, Henry Weinhard's Private Reserve.

Trailblazer fans can expect a lot of good things from both of them this season. Again.

PORTLAND ATTENDANCE

For the seventh straight season, the Portland Trail Blazers were sold out in 1983-84 for all 44 home games, 41 during the regular campaign and three in the playoffs.

This stretched Portland's record of consecutive sellouts for regular-season and playoff action to 312.

It's an all-time National Basketball Association record.

A sellout in Portland is 12,666, which includes a limit of 300 reserved standing room tickets.

The last time the Blazers failed to sell out was on April 5, 1977, when a crowd of 12,359 turned out for a game with Detroit.

In Portland's first 14 NBA seasons, the Blazers have drawn 6,175,806 fans for regular-season action. That's an average of 10,797 a contest.

For 595 regular-season and playoff games, the Blazers have drawn 6,468,965 fans for an average of 10,872 a contest.

In 41 regular-season road games last year the Blazers played before 413,926 fans – an average of 10,096 a contest.

Total regular-season attendance for home and road games last season was 933,232 – an average of 11,381 a contest.

CAREFUL PEOPLE WIN WITH SAFECO.

TM & © 1983 United Artists — ALL RIGHTS RESERVED

At SAFECO we've always believed that careful people shouldn't be penalized for the carelessness of others.

After all, it's the people we don't insure that make SAFECO such a good deal for those we do.

So check the Yellow Pages for the independent SAFECO agent nearest you.

For value, service and peace of mind, it pays to be part of the SAFECO team.

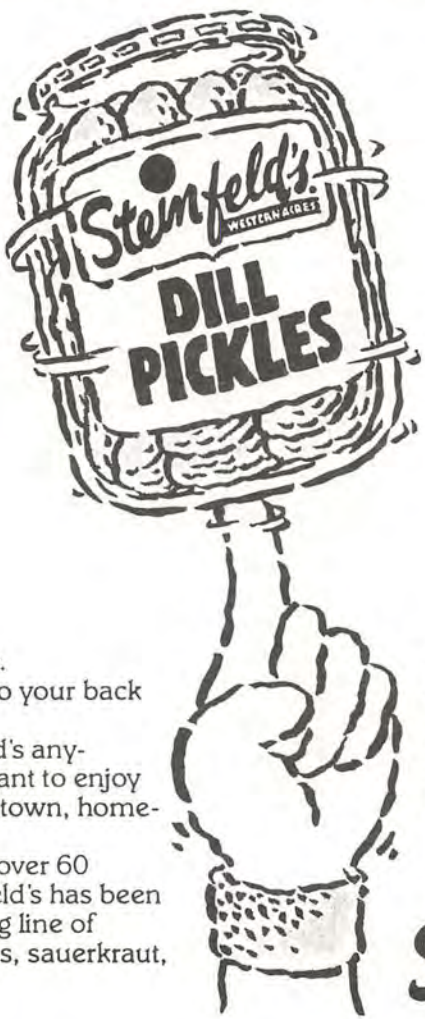
TAKE STEINFELD'S TO COURT.



Or to a picnic.
Or even out to your back yard.
Take Steinfeld's anywhere you want to enjoy a great hometown, homegrown taste.
Because, for over 60 years, Steinfeld's has been making a long line of quality pickles, sauerkraut, and relish.

All with the taste, zest, and crunch that brings the fans to their feet.
And has made Steinfeld's the winning team.
But you be the judge.

We'd like to thank everyone who helped make us #1.

And that's a lot of "thank-you's."

Oregon Dental Service is the prepaid dental plan most preferred by Oregon's employers, workers and dentists.

The reason? Simple. No other prepaid dental plan delivers as much dental care for the group dental dollar.

Here's how an ODS dental plan can benefit you.

"HOLD HARMLESS" PROTECTION

Our unique relationship with 95% of Oregon's dentists guarantees that dental fees will not exceed pre-established limits. That's your guarantee against an unexpected dental bill.

No other dental plan can make this claim.

NO CLAIM FORMS

With ODS, dental claims are submitted directly to us. So there is no costly, time-consuming paperwork for either the employer or the employee.

All claims are handled quickly and accurately. This makes ODS plans easy to administer. And leaves more time for the real business at hand. Your business.

COST CONTAINMENT

ODS, in close cooperation with the Oregon dental profession, has worked to contain the costs of dental care. As a result, our unique cost containment features can save you an average of 6 to 7% of the cost of the identical claim handled by another carrier.

GO WITH #1

To establish a dental plan for your group, or to improve upon your present plan, check up with Oregon Dental Service.

Thank you.

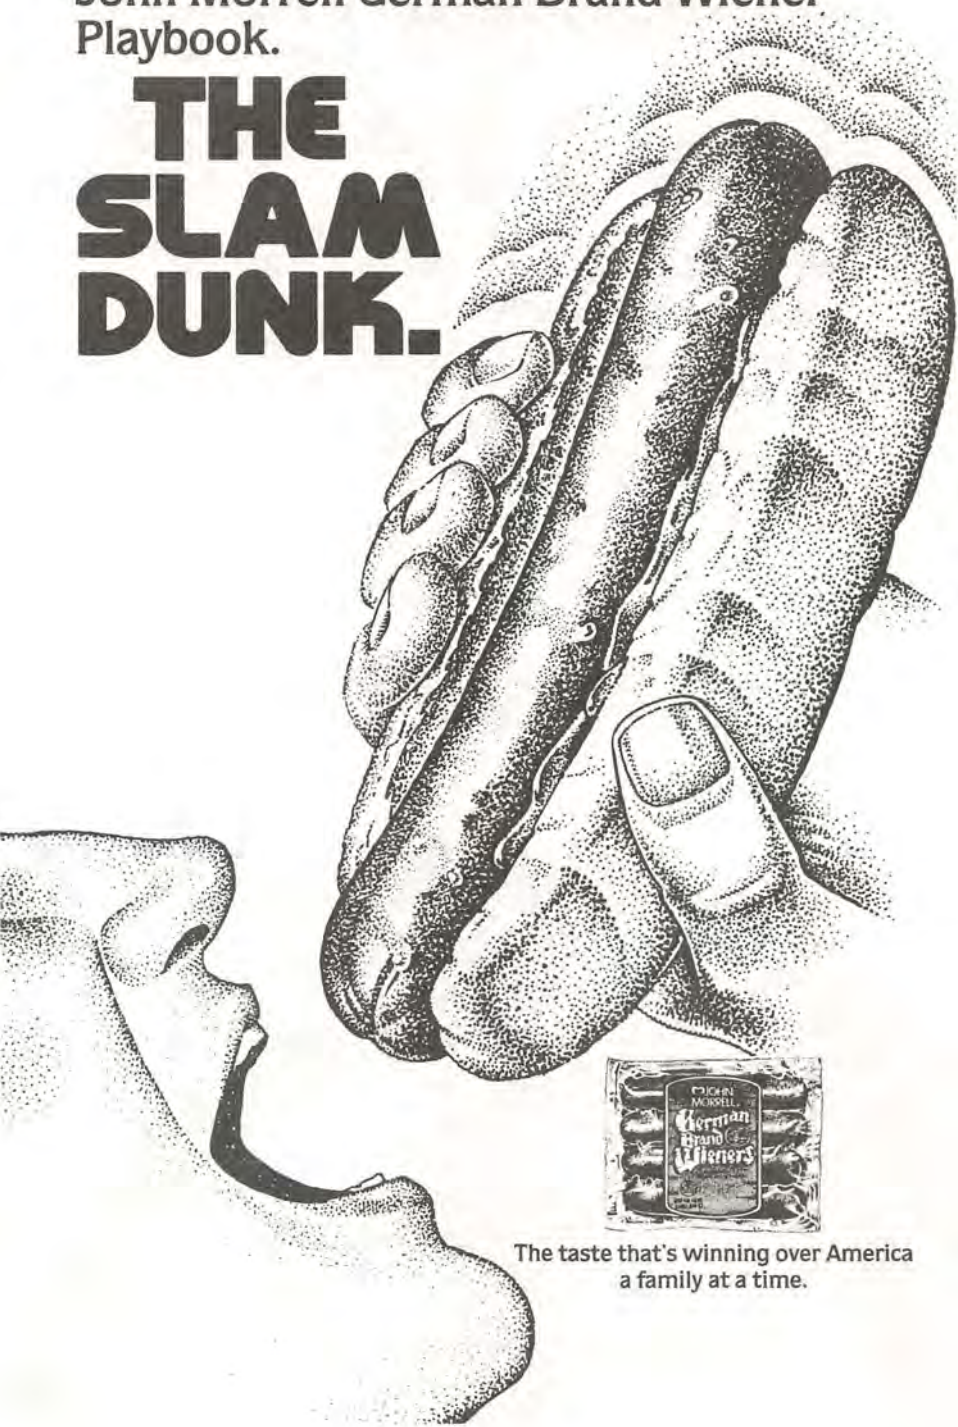
THE SLAM DUNK.



The taste that's winning over America
a family at a time.

Natural gas costs a lot less.

Don't let the high cost of electric heat run you down.

Nothing beats natural gas for supplying the heat. Compared to an electric furnace, a high-efficiency gas furnace can give you the same heat for about half the price.

And now's the time to switch. Northwest Natural Gas has 10-year financing. And in most cases, free hookups to the gas line.

So warm up to heat at about half the cost. Call Northwest Natural Gas today. Or visit our Natural Gas Home Center, 220 N.W. Second Ave., Portland. 226-4211.

The savings will make you warm all over.™

Car trouble?

Come to Shell Auto Care for repairs backed in writing

Find your neighborhood Shell Auto Care dealer listed below and bring your car trouble to him. You'll get professional service and repairs on tune-ups, wheel alignment, brakes, and air conditioning.

And when the job is done, the dealer will hand you his personal warranty on the work. That's "The Clincher."

The Clincher

"The Clincher" is your Auto Care dealer's written limited warranty covering the parts and labor in your repair. If faulty parts or labor cause you a problem, he'll do the work over free, or refund your money.

Certified mechanics

Your Auto Care dealer employs mechanics certified by Shell or NIASE. They have the skills and the modern equipment needed to do your repair right.

Written estimates

You'll get an estimate in writing before the work begins. A call for your O.K. if anything extra shows up. So there are no surprises when the work is done.

Old parts returned

Your old, used parts are returned whenever possible so you know that any new parts you pay for, you get.

Auto Care

Auto Care dealers feature:
Written estimates • Certified mechanics • Old parts returned • Written limited warranty

See one of the participating Auto Care dealers in the Portland area.

RADIO/TELEVISION

BLAZER SATELLITE RADIO

The Blazers have the largest radio network in the NBA. Last year, the Blazers installed a satellite system, being the only professional sports team to deliver its game via a wholly-owned satellite network.

BILL SCHONELY

Schonely has been the only play-by-play announcer in Trail Blazer history.

This is Schonely's 15th year behind the Blazer microphone. He has continually delighted fans throughout Oregon and southwest Washington with his lively delivery. He specializes in talking in colorful "word-pictures," which includes fan favorites such as "lickety brindle up the middle," "acros the cyclops," and the Blazer battle cry of "Rip City."

Before coming to Portland, Schonely developed his rapid fire machine-gun style by announcing hockey for the Seattle Totems of the Western Hockey League and the Oakland Seals of the NHL. He ws also the original voice of Seattle Pilots, the forerunner of the Milwaukee Brewers of the American League.

DAVE TWARDZIK

Dave Twardzik, recently promoted to an Account Executive in the Blazer marketing department, is also Bill Schonely's sidekick on the radio. Dave is entering his fourth year on the radio. As an Account Executive, he will be working with Trail Blazer radio sponsors and radio stations throughout Oregon. He recently completed a statewide radio tour that took him to all 26 Blazer Radio Network stations. Also, Twardzik is heavily involved in community activities, speaking engagements and clinics. Dave played four seasons for the Blazers after four years with the Virginia Squires in the American Basketball Association.

BLAZER TELEVISION NETWORK

Flagship station KOIN-TV, Channel 6, wil again air 20 Blazer road games this season. The Blazer Television Network reaches nearly every television set in Oregon from network affiliates KOBI in Medford, KOTI in Klamath Falls and KMTR in Eugene. Those stations, along with KOIN, are picked up also on cable throughout the state.

STEVE JONES

One of the most renown commentators of the NBA and the Trail Blazers, Steve Jones moves into his second season as the play-by-play announcer on the Blazer Television Network. A product of Portland's Franklin High School and the University of Oregon, Steve finished a long American Basketball Association playing career in the NBA, with the Blazers, in 1976. In addition to handling 20 road games for the Blazers, Steve also will do 15 home games this season on Blazer Cable. But his duties don't stop there. As host of the ever-popular Blazer Sports Talk, the most listened-to talk show in the state, Steve can be heard prior to every Blazer game in KEX. And Blazer Sports Talk Special Edition, the Monday night show on KEX, will air 50 weeks a year. And it doesn't stop here. Last season, Steve began a weekly column, "Blazer Mailbag with Steve Jones," which now appears in 10 newspapers throughout the state.

LARRY STEELE

Recently named Marketing Manager for the Blazers, Larry Steele also is Steve Jones' color commentator on the Blazer Television Network and Blazer Cable. Larry is moving into his fifth season on television. A third-round draft choice from Kentucky in 1971, Steele played nine years for the Blazers and played more games (610) than any player in Blazer history. As Marketing Manager, Larry will work extensively with Blazer television sponsors and in media sales. He will also participate in Blazer community activities. KNown for his hustle on the basketball floor, Steele has made the transition to the business end of the team.

BLAZER SPORTS TALK

Blazer Sports Talk, hosted by Steve Jones, has taken a big step forward this year. In addition to the regular show which airs on KEX 90 minutes prior to every game, Blazer Sports Talk Special Edition has been cleared to air 50 weeks a year on Monday nights, from 6-8 p.m. Before, Special Edition aired only during the season.

BLAZER CABLE

Blazer Cable is available to subscribers of Storer Cable in Washington County and Aloha, and North Willamette Telecom in the Canby area. The Blazers are still hoping to add Blazer Cable on other local area cable systems in the near future. Blazer Cable is offering subscribers three different package options of 15, 12 and 6 games. In addition, games will be available on a pay-per-game basis in some areas.

A trail blazer Television Sponsor

Only one Trail Blazer in history drew a technical foul before he ever saw a minute of action.

When Bill Stricker was told to enter a game in 1971, he became so excited he dashed straight from the bench into the game without reporting to the scorer's table.

On the basis of points scored per minute of play, the highest scorer in Trail Blazer history was Bill Stricker of the 1970-71 club.

He played exactly one minute.

And he scored four points.

Heck, in a 48-minute game that would be a 192-point scoring performance.

The best shooting percentage for a season in Portland history was turned in by Carl Bailey in 1981-82.

He shot once.

He connected once.

The worst free throw percentage for a season in Portland history was recorded by Geoff Crompton in 1980-81.

He went to the foul line five times and converted only once.

The worst season shooting percentage by a Trail Blazer in the club's history?

Dorie Murrey set the record in the inaugural campaign in 1970-71.

He fired six times from the floor and connected once for a shooting mark of .167.

The best three-point field goal shooting percentage in Portland history?

The answer is 1.000. Petur Gudmundsson tried only one and made it.

Geoff Petrie converted on 463 free throw attempts during his rookie season in 1970-71.

In his second professional year, he made good on 441 chances.

No other Trail Blazer in history ever has hit the 400 level.

Only one Trail Blazer in history ever has scored 30 or more points twice in playoff games.

The name?

Lionel Hollins.

The best shooting performance in Portland playoff history was recorded by former University of Minnesota star Jim Brewer.

In three games against Seattle in 1980, Brewer fired 10 times from the floor.

He connected on all 10 attempts.

BUSINESS MAN'S BEST FRIEND.

Let's face it. In today's time-is-money business world your telephone system should be your best friend. When you're ready to choose who your friends will be, the wise choice is always American Business Communications . . . the people who sell telephone systems.

ABC is the Northwest's largest, privately-owned interconnect telephone company. ABC conducts a free analysis of your company's individual communication needs, handles all installations and maintenance, and trains each staff member to use your new interconnect system to its maximum efficiency.

Isn't that what friends are for?

At American Business Communications it's our business to show your business how to save time and money by leasing or buying a telephone system.

Invest in an ABC interconnect telephone system . . . you'll have a friend for life!
